It's a great time to be in our business. Prices and demand have never been greater, and the future is so bright we have to wear sunglasses! But with this increased level of activity there has been an alarming increase in accidents. These have not been limited to new employees! Some of those injured in the last few years have over 20 years of experience. Safety training is like taking a shower. You need to do it regularly!

We have assembled an impressive list of oil and gas industry experts who will help you drill and complete wells safer! They will share valuable insight on a wide variety of safety topics covering all phases of drilling and completion, including: Oil and gas properties, pressures, forces, drilling and service rig safety, cementing, perforating, fracing, well control, well testing, flow back, emergency response procedure, and Incident command.

Register Now! Space is limited. Registration deadline is Tuesday, May 16, 2006!
